Re: Mr. Darryl Trott – Character Testimonial

I am writing this letter as a personal reference for Mr. Darryl Trott.

I first met Darryl during the summer of 2012, when my employer, Tokio Marine Kiln Insurance Services Limited, was looking for a Quantity Surveyor to help us with the estimates of the costs associated with our impending relocation and, eventually, to help us control of those costs once our relocation project had begun.

At that time, I was the co-sponsor of the relocation of our company and two other related companies from our respective premises to our new home at 20 Fenchurch Street.

Darryl was recommended to me by a senior partner at Cushman and Wakefield, which was the Company appointed to project-manage our move.

Throughout the period of my contact with Daryl, I found him to be very assured in the knowledge of his subject. His dealings with the Project Managers and the Contractors were calm, assured, firm, but courteous. He maintained very cordial relationships with all those with whom he was in contact. This was a very difficult task, given the nature of his role. He carried this out with great aplomb, elegance and with a sense of humour which endeared him to all.

I have no hesitation whatsoever in recommending Darryl as a consummate professional in his role as a Quantity Surveyor. I will be very pleased to provide my personal and my company's endorsement of his skills.

I trust that the information provided in this letter will be of assistance and will be happy to provide further information, should this be required.
